NO CONVENTION.

The consultation of Republicans at Tuscola yesterday, held for the purpose of considering the question of calling a judicial convention, was attended by a large number of representative members of the party, in addition to the chairmen of the several county central committees, all of whom were present After a full and free interchange of opinion it was decided not to call a convention, seven countries voting against and only two (Champaign and Coles, in favor of the proposition to nominate candidates. The meeting was barmonious in every respect.

CONGRESSION VI.

The debate on the army bill was continued in the House yesterday, the principal speakers being Williams, of Wisconsin, Townshend, Calkins, Herbert, Buckner and White (Pa.) A vote will probably be reached on Saturday.

GRN. DANIEL CAMERON, of Chicago. died yesterday morning, of consumption, in the 50th year of his age. Gen. Cameron was a native of Scotland, came to this country in 1851, and located at Wheeling, Cook county, III. In 1854 he became one of the proprietors of the Chicago Times, when it was established that year. In 1857 be disposed of his interest, but subsequently became publigher in 1860, and continued until 1861. Later be raised the Sixty fifth Hinois Regiment of Volunteers, commanded for a time at Comp Douglas and then served in the field in Georgia. Virginia and other Southern States, for which services he received the rank of Brigadier General. After the war beresided on his farm, and in 1869 was elected to the convention which framed the present constitution of the State He had at various times taken an active and conspicuous part in the policies

THE notion of the democratic major. ity of the Senate, in refusing to seat Bell, the new senator from New Hamp shire, is of a piece with the partisun policy which now controls both houses of Congress. If Bell had been a demperat he would have been admitted without objection.

A Novel Case of Begging.

A few days ago a well-dressed woman, about twenty-eight years old, was arrested in Wall street, New York, for street-begging. When taken before a police judge she declined to give her real name, but an examination of her personal effects showed her to be the wife of a gentleman who has an office in Wall street. She then confessed her identity. She said that her husband was out of employment for the time, and that she needed money, which her bushand was not able to give her. She quaintances, and had no relatives in the city. She determined, therefore, to go tinto the streets and beg for it. This she had done three times before without her husband's knowledge. "I didn't see anything wicked or wrong in it," and she of wanted the money for ear fares and to spend. Her husband was sent for, and when informed of the facts, said. "My Cod, has it come to this?" He went to the station house and took her home. To a reporter be said that he had mem y enough to live on for the present, though since he had been out of work he had been unable to provide his wife with the luxuries to which she had been accustomed, and had several times lately been compelled to refuse her money. He was entirely unaware of her attempts to replenish her purse. They lived in a cold neighborhood and in comfortable style.
